Hostilities are Regarded Now as Inevitable—England Facing a Coalition of Germany and Russia in Africa and the Far East.

Special Cable to the Call and New York Herald.

LONDON, March 4.—The week's closing is crowned with indications that political events of dangerous magnitude are preparing. The machinery is mostly out of sight in the Foreign Office and in the undercurrent of popular passion, but nevertheless it is real.

There is no news from South Africa, but a crisis is preparing for which the Transvaal is arming under instructions of German officers. England is quietly strengthening her garrisons on the borders of Natal, and Delagoa Bay will shortly become either Boer or British, for the Portuguese have long ago ceased to command respect at that port, the best in South Africa.

I have learned from good authority that Russia has 10,000 men at Port Arthur and 40,000 more in that general neighborhood, whose principal business is to discourage others from building railways in Northern China and gradually to familiarize us with the idea of Peking as the residence of a Russian Governor. The Muscovites protest against railway extension to Newchang, in which considerable American capital is embarked, proves that Russian steps in China are not in the line of an open door.

In Germany, the utterances of the Foreign Minister, Baron von Bulow, are far from satisfactory so far as the United States is concerned, for if his words are true we are compelled to question the veracity of competent eye-witnesses at Manila and elsewhere.

There are many forces making for war, and the Czar's proclamation seems to have been the signal for redoubled military energy.

England is conscious that she may soon be called upon to fight against a coalition of Russia and Germany, and it is not beyond possibility that France may make a third in this coalition.

I believe to-day that the English army and navy are in a better state of equipment, organization and fighting spirit than at any time since Cromwell. There has been a silent revolution in both services which cannot be appreciated until put to the test.

And, along with all this, it is manifest to-day to high and low that politically and morally there must be no future differences with America, or if there are they must be settled peacefully by some international supreme court. Reflections of this nature are uppermost in the thoughts of Englishmen, constituting for us a golden opportunity, which no two men can better appreciate than John Hay and Joseph Choate.

Settlement of the Fashoda Incident.

PARIS, March 7.—The following semi-official note was issued this evening: "A satisfactory settlement between France and Great Britain of the questions arising out of the Fashoda incident may be expected within a fortnight. The delimitation of the respective territories has so far advanced that the starting points and general direction of the frontier have already been arranged and Great Britain has admitted that France was entitled to a commercial outlet on the Nile."

Putnam Will Accept.

BOSTON, March 6.—Herbert Putnam, librarian of the Boston Public Library, has said that he will accept the post of Librarian of Congress, previously tendered to him by President McKinley, in case the offer is renewed.

On the Extension of Shanghai Settlement.

LONDON, March 7.—The Times publishes the following dispatch from Shanghai: The British, American and German Consuls to-day (Monday) declined to hold further negotiations with the Taotai of Shanghai on the question of the extension of the foreign settlement, owing to the evasive and obstructive tactics to which he has resorted. They will demand that the Viceroy appoint a special deputy to arrange the matter.

Belgium's Queen May Recover.

BRUSSELS, March 7.—Although the papers are complaining of the secrecy concerning the details of the Queen's illness, it transpired to-day that there is further improvement. Two of the doctors are still doubtful, but the third, Dr. Thiriar, is confident of Her Majesty's recovery.

Afghanistan's Ameer All Right.

LONDON, March 8.—The Calcutta correspondent of the Times says: News has just been received here from Cabul under date of February 25, which says the Ameer of Afghanistan was then in excellent health and had just held a public "darbar."
